

The ten feelings, the ten people

Everything on these five pages comes from pages 8 and 9 of the book. Same ten nouns, same ten adjectives, same five expressions, same ten personality words, same two tenses. Different sentences, so you cannot answer from memory.

TASK 1 From the noun to the adjective on your own, four minutes

Student's Book page 8, exercises 1 and 2.

Three of these are traps. One is spelled with a double letter twice. One does not look like its noun at all. One ends in -ic. Find them before I tell you.

	THE NOUN	THE ADJECTIVE
1	joy	overjoyed
2	confidence
3	relief
4	amazement
5	despair
6	guilt
7	embarrassment
8	anxiety
9	frustration
10	sympathy

THEN, IN PAIRS

Take five each. Say a true sentence about yourself or somebody you know using your five adjectives, not the nouns. I was overjoyed when is worth more in the exam than I felt joy.

FAST FINISHERS ONLY, NOT IN THE BOOK

Three of these ten have a partner ending in -ing that describes the cause, not the person: amazed goes with amazing, frustrated with frustrating, embarrassed with embarrassing. The other seven have no such partner. Write one sentence with each of the three -ing forms.

TASK 2 Five expressions the exam likes on your own, then in pairs

Student's Book page 8, exercise 3, and the Vocabulary reference on page 95.

These five are worth more than any single adjective on page 1. An examiner hears I was very surprised from everybody. I was lost for words is the sentence that moves you up a band. Match each expression to its meaning.

	THE EXPRESSION	LETTER	MEANING
1	to be in agony		a to make someone upset or irritated
2	to be on the edge of your seat		b feeling a lot of pain
3	to get under someone's skin		c shocked and surprised
4	to be lost for words		d feeling sadness
5	with regret		e very excited

TASK 2b Now use them write, then read them out

Finish each sentence so that it is true, or so that it could be. Every one must be about Valencia, your own life, or something you have actually watched or read.

- The last ten minutes of _____ had us on the edge of our seats because _____.
- I was completely lost for words when _____.
- The one thing that really gets under my skin is _____.
- It is with regret that _____.
- I was in agony after _____.

REGISTER

With regret is formal. It belongs in an email turning somebody down, not in a conversation with a friend. The other four are neutral and you can use them anywhere. Knowing which is which is half of FCE Writing Part 2.

TASK 3 Ten people you might have to live with on your own, five minutes

Student's Book page 8, exercise 4. These are the book's ten, no others.

Mark each one + , - or B. B is for the one that can be a compliment or a complaint depending on who is saying it. There is exactly one. Then write the opposite, and if there is no single word for it, write a short phrase.

	ADJECTIVE	+ , - OR B	OPPOSITE
1	aggressive
2	arrogant
3	bad-tempered
4	loyal
5	mature
6	mean
7	stubborn
8	sensitive
9	reliable
10	childish

THE ONE THAT GOES BOTH WAYS

Write one sentence where it is a compliment, and one where it is a complaint. The book gives you the clue on page 8: Vincent is easily hurt, but he is good at recognising other people's feelings.

TASK 3b Now agree in pairs, three minutes, out loud

You are sharing a flat in London for one month with somebody you have never met. From the ten above, choose together the two you most want and the two you could not live with. You have to agree, so you will have to disagree first. Useful: I see what you mean, but · It depends what you mean by · I would rather have somebody who · That would drive me mad.

TASK 4 What you do, and what you are doing part A, on your own

Student's Book page 9. The eleven uses the book lists are all here, in order of appearance.

Present simple for scientific facts and general truths, permanent situations, habits and repeated actions, timetabled and scheduled events, and narratives. Present continuous for what is happening at the moment, temporary situations, fixed arrangements for the future, annoying habits with always or forever, changing situations (often with a comparative), and describing a picture. Stative verbs such as hate, want, know and seem are not normally used in the continuous at all.

Put each verb in brackets into the present simple or the present continuous. There are thirteen.

TASK 4 The grid for part B fill this in while you ask

	NORA	DIEGO
Lives
Studies or works
Doing this month or term
Always doing it, and it is annoying
Already arranged

TASK 4 Two people, half the facts each part B, in pairs, speaking

Fold this page along the line so that you can only see your own card. Student A takes the top card, Student B the bottom one. Ask questions until you can both fill in the grid on page 4. Every answer is either present simple or present continuous, so the question has to be too: Where does she live? is a different question from Where is she living at the moment?

STUDENT AYou know about Nora

- She lives in Ruzafa, but this month she is staying at her grandmother's in Gandia, because the lift in her building is broken.
- She studies architecture, and she works in a café on Saturdays.
- She is learning French, because she is moving to Toulouse in January.
- She is always losing her keys.
- Her flight leaves at 6.15 on Sunday morning.

Ask Student B about Diego: where he lives · what he does · what he is doing this term · what he does on Sundays · the habit of his that annoys people · his fixed plan for July.

----- FOLD HERE -----

STUDENT BYou know about Diego

- He lives in Benimaclet and shares a flat with three other people.
- He teaches swimming at the pool every morning, and this term he is doing a course in sports nutrition.
- He spends most Sundays at his parents' house in Requena.
- He is always telling the same three stories.
- In July he is going to Shrewsbury to work at a summer camp.

Ask Student A about Nora: where she lives · where she is living this month and why · what she studies · why she is learning French · the habit of hers that annoys people · what time her flight leaves.

BEFORE MONDAY

Book page 9, exercise 5, the four gapped conversations. Then write five true sentences about yourself, three present simple and two present continuous, and one more that is false. Your partner has to find the false one.
